

One man told me that he saw Bangs tear up a pape part print part writing at Oakes--and Oakes told him not to do that again.

told mrs Oakes that the sailors Mrs. Hasty ~~& all thought~~ ^ behave remarkably well were wonderfully ready to assist the passengers.

They used such expressions as "fine lady" ~~[Paolena] washed ashore entirely naked about 4 o'clock~~ kind lady" referring to Margaret.--^

Mrs Hasty told her that ~~The chi.~~ ^ The child had nothing but its night it never cried at all found gown on at first^ When ^ it was quite naked.

Mr Oakes brought it up in his buffalo. Mrs Oakes who laid it out in a little blue dress found in the trunk--says it was a quite long stout & fleshy child with a large head which it would have outgrown with only a few pits left on its face. Just such a head as Arthur Fuller. Mrs Hasty told her it had just begun to talk Ital & English. It had "very short thin hair a little lightish--" & its hand bled the next day. It was buried sat afternoon 50 rods west of the house almost 3 feet deep as deep as the water would permit.

She said that mrs Hasty was 28 or 9 years old. Had her husbands likeness on her wrist & his gold watch still running when she got to the house. That mrs Hasty thought they H] h might all have been saved if they had done
